

Mr. Daniel David*Minister of Education and Research

Daniel David is the Minister of Education and Research in the Government of Romania, playing a key role in reforming and modernizing the country's educational system. With extensive experience in the field of education, Mr. David is a strong advocate for reforms that support innovation and adaptation to the current needs of both students and teachers. He is actively engaged in promoting digitalization projects within education.

He is a graduate of "Babeş-Bolyai" University in Cluj-Napoca, where he earned a degree in Psychology and later completed a PhD in Psychology, specializing in educational psychology and cognitive development. He has served as an associate professor at the same university, contributing to the training of future educators through courses in psychology and education.

Mr. David previously held prominent positions in the fields of education and research, including Rector of "Babeş-Bolyai" University and President of the Romanian Agency for Quality Assurance in Higher Education (ARACIS). He is also a professor at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai and serves as research director at the Albert Ellis Institute, both in New York, USA.

Additionally, he is the president and executive director of the International Institute for the Advanced Studies of Psychotherapy and Applied Mental Health, and a member of both the Romanian Academy and the European Academy.